Catalogue of records of the Children's Union

The Children's Union, a fundraising body supported almost entirely from the contributions of children, grew out of an idea by Helen Milman (later Mrs Caldwell Crofton) who became secretary for the Diocese of St David's in Wales in 1887. In that year she founded the Odd Minute Coterie which consisted of 44 school children who pledged to do some work for The Children's Society - either 15 minutes daily or one and a half hours a week. If they failed to honour their pledge the members were required to donate a penny per quarter hour. This was followed by the Holiday Union in 1888-1889, the stated aim of which was to support a child in St Nicholas' in Tooting London for a whole year. By 1889 the Holiday Union had become the Children's Union with the expressed aim of supporting a child in St Nicholas's each year - a cost of £15.

In 1889 a Committee, officially titled "Committee of Cripples' homes and Children's Union" was formed; this was later renamed the Committee of the Children's Union. Over the next 80 years the Children's Union supported first disabled children and then, as the work of The Children's Society changed focus, babies and toddlers.

The Children's Union consisted of a Southern Province and a Northern Province, with the Northern Province focussing on supporting Bradstock Lockett, Southport. Alongside these provinces, at certain times, there were other local administrative units, including the Dioceses of Ripon and Wakefield, the Manchester Children's Union, and the Manchester and Blackburn Diocesan Children's Union, which focussed on supporting St Chad's Home, Far Headingley. All provinces and local administrative units had merged together by 1950.

As with the wider organisation, the members of the Children's Union were arranged in a branch structure, with children and young people acting as officers of the branches. At the outset a branch could be started with a public meeting or by personal effort amongst children. Six members or more and a secretary were required. This branch structure continued until the 1970s.

The Children's Union also ran two other fundraising initiatives: the Pet Animals' League (originally the Rover League), and the Happy Birthday League (later called the Birthday Fund).

The Children's Union operated with some independence from The Children's Society until the 1970s. On 8 March 1979 the Children's Union Committee was replaced by the Education Advisory Panel which had been formed in 1978. At this point the Children's Union effectively ceased to exist. Its work was continued by The Children's Society's Youth Department.

A note on the name of The Children's Society:

The Children's Society has undergone a number of name changes during its lifetime. From its founding in 1881 until 1883, it was known as The Church of England Central Home for Waifs and Strays; from 1883 until 1893, it was known as The Church of England Central Society for Providing Homes for Waifs and Strays; and from 1893 until 1946, it was known as The Church of England Incorporated Society for Providing Homes for Waifs and Strays. Throughout this time, from 1881 until 1946, The Children's Society was commonly called The Waifs and Strays Society.

In 1946, it gained the name which is still its legal title, The Church of England Children's Society, even though it was renamed The Children's Society in 1982.

In order to avoid confusion in this catalogue when referring to The Children's Society and its previous incarnations, The Children's Society has been used for all records that date after 1946, and The Society has been used for all records that date before 1946.

How to access the records listed in this catalogue

Open records

It is possible to view any of the records in this catalogue that have their access status listed as open.

Digital copies of Brothers and Sisters magazine, 1890 to 1920, are available on the Hidden Lives Revealed website:

Closed records

Some of the records in this catalogue may have their access status listed as closed. These records have been closed because they contain personal information relating to living individuals. All closed records have been given a closure date to show when they will be transferred to open access.

In certain circumstances, it may be possible to view closed records before the closure date has passed. Decisions to grant access to closed records will depend on the records themselves and the nature of the research to be undertaken, and so will be made by the archivist on a case-by-case basis. The Children's Society reserves the right not to make certain records available.
